Banking & Compliance: Nicolas Kalombayi Mukanya joins Ethikos

As an ethical law firm specialized in business law, Ethikos is proud to welcome Nicolas Kalombayi Mukanya. He will join the Banking & Compliance team with a focus on AML and privacy.

Before he was allowed to work as an attorney, Nicolas performed a summer internship at Ethikos, where he had to assess and manage money laundering and terrorism financing risks in cases related to assets repatriation, gambling activities, and severe potential tax fraud.

Nicolas also contributed to drafting several articles for law reviews, where he demonstrated excellent research and writing skills as well as sharply critical analysis.

Nicolas liked the values put forward by Ethikos, which are part of a trend where ethics, integrity, and the human being must necessarily prevail. Nicolas feels part of a new family where his work is valued and where a great atmosphere is guaranteed.

Miguel Mairlot, the co-founder of Ethikos, is proud of this new addition: “Nicolas has proven with his work that he deserves his place among the already high-qualified lawyers who are part of the firm. His analytical skills and his resilience have provided us enough guarantees that he can also perform at a high level”.

Nicolas graduated from the Université Libre de Bruxelles (ULB) in 2020 (cum laude). His master thesis deals with State aids and corporate tax law: “Excess profit rulings: State aids?”.
